residencies at Junction City Music Hall (Toronto) and The Beer Can (Winnipeg) have further stoked the reputation of unmatched passion and presence.

This Winnipeg Born legend is in big time demand to entertain everyone from rarefied cultural elites to the party people of the city streets. Experienced at everything from raves to dive bars, private clubs, secret societies, music festivals, sporting events, and high profile functions like Bastid's BBQ and Festival Du Voyageur. These shows explore the width and breadth of music through his crackling personality, blending eras and genres with ease, to the satisfaction of the diverse and discerning dancefloor. His selections and unique style create an exchange of energy and joy that is both fundamental djing and performative party rocking. You'll see him several times a week, singing and smiling, scanning the floor for more to levitate, radiating inimitable vibes, and working tirelessly to keep sharing them with the world.

All that, and he can dance

Fish on a Platter with Kris Goold

Date and Time: Thursday, April 25 5:30 pm - 9:30 pm

Address: 300 Main Street South, Kenora

Join Kris Goold of Fragile Glass Studio at the Douglas Family Art Centre for an evening of creating. Using enamel paints which are food, microwave, and dishwasher safe, Kris will lead you through the process of decorating a porcelain platter with a beautiful fish motif. These platters are high-fired porcelain, meaning they are very durable and won't easily chip or crack. Once the enamel has been applied, participants will carve away at the enamel using a sgraffito technique to create intricate details and patterns. After the class, the platters will be fired in the kiln to reveal the vivid colours of the enamel. The platters will be available for pick up at the Douglas Family Art Centre the following day.

Due to the length of this class, participants are encouraged to bring appetizers or dinner for this evening workshop. The class will be held in the Gail Konantz Studio, but participants will have access to the Multipurpose Room with a microwave, oven, stove-top, and refrigerator.

Registration and payment are required to reserve you space in the class, and can be completed in-person or online.
